Dear Shrinivasan Kannan,

How are you? Convey my regards to your family also.

Here is a message from LinkedIn that was sent out to the entire hostel. We don't know how this happened! The 'To:' field is what stuns. It suggests that perhaps you know how this happened. Could you please check and get it sorted it out?

Thanks and regards,

Aneesh.

hi,

I am doing good.

Thanks for letting me know about this. I got a mail from linkedin that few million users' passwords have been compromised and I may be one of them and it asked me to change linkedin password. I changed the password.

But I don't know how linkedin sent a mail to cmi hostel. Looks like either my mail account and/or linkedin has been heavily penetrated. Five years ago I have complained to GMail, Yahoo and others including previous organisations I worked about my accounts getting hacked. Even my facebook account was hacked few days back I think. Last year and in 2009 some lewd spam mails were sent from my yahoo id and from CMI id to some IT company HRs and almost every one in contacts which even I received to my CMI id. I reported about it to Yahoo to delete my mail account.

Probably Google or linkedin can be alerted about this. I can't do anything about it. Moreover I have been undergoing numerous serious cybercrime(mail id spoofing, theft and tampering of confidential electronic data and hacking of mail accounts and my personal computer) and privacy violation incidents among other things over the past 6 years or more which has taken peace out of me. I had already given a police complaint 5 years back about this in 2007. So probably this incident is one more in that series and a corroborating public evidence of it. So sorting out has to be done by ISP or other websites like gmail or linkedin.

I have CC-ed Prof. Madhavan in this mail for remedial action.
